So we've made some improvements to fix this glaring problem. A few fixes and updates Update This is the worst camera. They have yet to fix any problems since I first posted back in September and this seems to have gotten worse. Now sometimes the error message reads: Make sure your device allows you to access (then some numbers). Maybe I'm not doing it right, but their customer service knows less than I do about these cameras, and I don't know very much. The general reviews about this app really should be 1 star, I don't know how it's 4 stars. We use our 1 camera for a children's monitor. We use the app to hear and see the child. Worked perfectly for 2 months and now after they have updated all so many times the app may not seem to find a camera in my network. We can get it to find the network long enough to start the camera, but after a couple of minutes the app will fail and read the network connection can not be installed. However, when I log out of the app and open it again, here and there is my camera magically connected to the network and I can turn on the camera again for a few minutes before crashing again. I very much doubt it's my Wi-Fi, go in and out because it's been going on for almost 2 months. I tried to call about it and email about it, but no response is given. I'm sorry you spent your money buying this camera if you can return Do! Find another one that will function without problems.
